NEW OFFICIALS OF FRANCE TIE TO THE LEAGUE

President Millerand and Premier Leygues Stand For Treaty

WILSON FELICITATES

Strict Enforcement of All Written Agreements is Policy of Government

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The chamber of deputies gave an overwhelming vote of confidence to the government of Premier Leygues this afternoon. The result was 507 in favor of the resolution expressing confidence as against 6 votes in opposition. After the vote, parliament adjourned until November. President Millerand also issued a declaration of policy in which he declared that the Versailles treaty constitutes a new charter for Europe. "Out of the tombs of our dead a glorious new France has been born," said the president. He deplored internal dissensions and party quarrels. M. Millerand declared he is anxious to develop prosperity in order that all may work in union for the devastated regions and their heroic population. He pointed out the necessity of complete execution of all signed agreements.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—President Wilson today sent the following telegram of congratulations to President Millerand of France:

"May I offer you my warm felicitations on your election to the presidency of the French republic and your assumption of the duties of that high office, and my best wishes for a most successful administration. I am confident that the cordial relations between the United States and France which now have become historic, will remain unweakened under your friendly guidance."

PARIS, Premier Leygues who assumed office yesterday notified the chamber of deputies today that he would demand strict application of all treaties and attempt to make the society of nations a powerful, living organism.

"Premier Leygues was given a reception when he appeared to read his declaration of policy to the chamber. "I will continue the program and the work of my predecessor," said the premier. "I intend to continue the task of defending liberty and law to fortify and ameliorate our republican institutions and to realize reforms that will alleviate the sufferings of the northern provinces and reconstruct the invaded districts."

FIFTY LEGION MEN TO LEAVE SUNDAY TO ATTEND MEETS

Fifty Coshocton-co American Legion boys will entrain for Cleveland Sunday morning where they are to attend the reunion of the 37th Division boys held there this afternoon. A special passenger coach has been obtained to accommodate the boys. It will be annexed to the morning Wheeling & Lake Erie north bound passenger train.

The local ex-service men will stay over to attend the National American Legion Convention, held at Cleveland, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Coshocton-co ex-service men will be in uniform during their stay in Cleveland.

The National American Legion forces will hold a gigantic parade Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Coshocton-co Legion men are to be represented in the parade and will form at East 23rd-st at Chester-av.

FARM BUREAU PLANS CAMPAIGN TO SWELL MEMBERSHIP OF 1180

At a meeting of the township directors of the County Farm Bureau at the Farm Bureau office Saturday afternoon, eleven townships were represented. The purpose of the meeting was to make final plans for the Farm Bureau membership drive to be opened in this county, October 16. The campaign will be carried on for two weeks.

About 25 state solicitors will take part in the campaign work in soliciting new members to the Farm Bureau. One becoming a member of this organization will have to pay a fee of $1.00. The present membership of the Farm Bureau is 1180.

HOOCH-KOOCH SHOWS ARE BARRED FROM COUNTY FAIR

This Year's Exhibition to Be Free From Immorality—Night Fair to Be Pleasing Feature

That, long-looked-for event, the county fair, with all its pleasant memories, is almost here and during the coming week there will be the usual flutter of excitement around the office of Secretary W. B. Miller as there are a thousand and one details to be arranged in order that the big show may be properly staged. The dates are October 5, 6, 7 and 8, the night fair on Wednesday and Thursday being a special added feature this year.

First of all, let it be thoroughly understood that no attractions of an immoral or questionable nature, such as hooch-kooch shows, will be permitted on the grounds this year. Should the management of any show, which is granted a permit under the representation that it is strictly moral attempt to change the program and put on anything of a vulgar or indecent nature, the show will be ejected from the grounds as soon as the attention of the fair board is called to it. The intention is to keep the county fair as free from taint as possible as Coshocton-co bears the reputation of putting on the cleanest and best fair in the state.

For the night fair a pyrotechnical display and special free attractions, costing a total of about $1500, have been arranged. The Gordon Company, Chicago, will have an expert here to handle the fireworks. The free attractions will consist of a dog show, acrobatic performers, clowns and other open-air acts. An admission of 25 cents will be charged at the gates for the night fair. The admission thru the day will be 50 cents. Wiring is being installed for the lights in the grandstand and part way around the race track for the night fair.

Old soldiers, school children and inmates of the county infirmary will be admitted free on Wednesday, in accordance with the usual custom. Teachers are urged to inform the secretary how many free tickets they will want for their pupils for Wednesday.

The building just east of the residence near the entrance to the fair grounds has been set aside for school exhibits and boys' and girls' club work. There will be a splendid array of school exhibits and there will be canning demonstrations each day.

Already the officials are wondering where they are going to put all the exhibits this year. It promises to be the greatest fair in all the 69 years since the institution was established. Dan Barroll, who has attended them all, is still able to be around and it's a safe bet that he'll be there. This year he will have an opportunity to gaze upon that latest vehicle of travel, the aeroplane, which will be on the grounds to carry passengers.

Special trains will be run on the Pennsylvania and Wheeling & Lake Erie on Thursday, with a reduced charge of fare and one-half, and tickets on the Wheeling are to be good until Saturday.

The race entries close next Friday night. L. J. Foster is in charge of the speed department. Earl Sweeney, Chillicothe, has been secured as official starter for the races. The speed program is as follows, the purse being $400 for each race: Wednesday, 2:24 pace, 2:21 trot and 2:14 pace; Thursday, 2:18 trot, 2:17 pace and 2:11 pace; Friday, 2:24 trot, 2:20 pace and 2:15 trot.

The score card privilege has been awarded to Swick & Swick, Lima; Fox Brothers, Newark, will sell ice cream, pop corn and candy; Gooding, West Park, Cleveland, will conduct the merry-go-round and ferris wheel; Frank Tritt, Springfield, will handle the balloons and novelties; Frank Harrison, Cambridge, will dispense hot waffles; the U. B. church, Church of Christ and Baptist church will each have lunch stands on the ground and serve home-cooked food, besides the lunch concessions granted to out-of-town people.

Reports from over the state indicate that this is a great year for county fairs. At the Wapakoneta fair held the first week in September the attendance was larger than ever before and about $8,000 was cleared by the Auguste-co fair board.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 25.—Members of the executive boards of Districts 17 and 29, United Mine Workers of America and of the state labor federation are holding a joint conference here today to consider a general strike of all industries in West Virginia if, as announced by the labor leaders, "Federal troops in the Mingo-co coal strike district are to be used as a strike breaking agency instead of for protection of rights of citizens in state and nation."

C. K. Kenny, President of District 17, of the mine workers, in a statement says the troops in the Mingo field are "being used to bring reproach upon a certain political party and its candidate for president," although those responsible are ostensibly friends of that party and candidate.

The general strike under consideration would embrace over 125,000 organized workmen composing the West Virginia Federation of labor including the miners.

Mr. Kenny declares the situation is critical and "without fair spirit of co-operation from all concerned, there can be no hope of mastering the situation."

Federal troops will remain in the Williamson district pending eventualities.

United States troops, scheduled to leave the West Virginia trouble zones in the mining regions, October 1, will continue on duty indefinitely according to announcement by Governor John J. Cornwall. The governor announced he has telegraphed General Read at Indianapolis cancelling his request for withdrawal of the troops until the present critical labor situation in the mining regions is much calmer.

Minors' Union heads meet here this forenoon to decide on a state wide strike as a move to force the removal of the United States troops from West Virginia. Other labor leaders have expressed their intention to co-operate in this movement. A general labor strike is in prospect.

Higher labor officials declare the federal troops are protecting strike breakers and the time has come when there should be a showdown as to whether the government will take the attitude of opposing organized labor.

On the other hand Gov. Cornwall just as soon as he learned of the plan to call a state wide strike to force his hand came out flatly last night and threw down the gauntlet to the labor men by defying them and declaring "order would be kept with troops, and the troops will remain until the situation is under control."

Y. W. WORKERS TO GIVE SHORT TALKS IN CITY'S CHURCHES

NEW PRECINCTS ESTABLISHED BY ELECTION BOARD

Work is Almost Complete Saturday Evening With 29 New Precincts

4TH WARD UNFINISHED

Establishment of many new precincts in the county by dividing nearly all the former precincts was practically completed Saturday evening by the county board of elections, composed of John Callahan, William Phillips, A. L. Fouts, Frank Walker and C. O. Foster clerk.

The following townships will have two precincts instead of one:

Adams: Divided by section line bisecting the township north and south.

Bedford: Divided north and south diagonally by the Warsaw-Tunnel Hill-Cooperdale road.

Bethlehem: Dividing line begins at the intersection of the C. A. & C. railroad and the north township line, following the railroad to Killbuck creek, southerly along the creek to the Walhonding river and following the river to the west township line.

Clark: Beginning at a point on the west township line near the Weather-wax farm; thence due east on the section line to Killbuck creek; thence southeast along the creek to the south section line of the Nicholas Mullett farm; thence due east to the east township line just north of the Marshall B. Endsley farm.

Crawford: Divided by section line bisecting the township from east to west.

Jackson: Starting at Roscoe and following the brick road southwestward to the Loder road; thence west along the Loder road to the west township line.

Jefferson: Beginning at the intersection of the west township line and the Walhonding river eastward along the river to the east township line. The township is simply divided by the river.

Keene: Beginning at the intersection of the Mound road and the north township line; thence southwest to the center of the Coshocton-Millersburg road; thence along this road to the south township line.

Lafayette: Beginning at the intersection of the west township line and the Coshocton-Newcomerstown road; thence east to the West Lafayette-Plainfield road; thence south to the south township line.

Linton: Wills Creek divides the township diagonally from the northwest corner to the southwest corner.

Monroe: Beginning near the center of the south township line; thence north to Spring Mountain; thence nearly due north along the Spring Mountain-Glenmont road to the north township line.

New Castle: Divided by the section line bisecting the township from east to west.

Oxford: Divided by the Coshocton-Newcomerstown road from east to west.

Perry: Divided by the New Guilford-West Bedford-Bladensburg road from east to west.

Pike: Divided by the New Guilford-West Carlisle-Frazeyburg road from north to south.

Tiverton: Beginning at the intersection of the north township line and the Tiverton Center-Glenmont road; thence south to Tiverton Center; thence south along the Honey Run road to the south township line.

Virginia: Beginning at the intersection of the north township line and the Willow Brook road; thence along this road to the Balo road, thence along this road to the south township line.

White Eyes: Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad divided the township from north to south.

West Lafayette corporation will have three precincts. Precinct A will include all territory west of Oak-st; Precinct B will include all territory north of Main-st and east of Oak-st; Precinct C will include all territory south of Main-st and east of Oak-st.

Tuscarawas will have three precincts instead of two. Precinct A will include all territory north of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad and the north corporation line of the city of Coshocton; Precinct B will include all territory south of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad and east of Coshocton to the Coshocton-Plainfield road; Precinct C will include all territory west and south of the Coshocton-Plainfield road.

City of Coshocton

ANARCHY THREATENS ALL IRELAND AS MACSWINEY'S END DRAWS NEAR

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Out and out anarchy threatens Ireland, all dispatches tonight show. The sacking of another town or another assassination or the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney may furnish the spark that will engulf the whole island in a sea of strife and bloodshed. An all night conference is being held in Dublin Castle in an effort to avert civil war.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The condition of Terence MacSwiney, hunger striking Lord Mayor of Cork was reported unchanged this afternoon. This was the 44th day of MacSwiney's self-imposed starvation.

The reinforcement of guards around Brixton jail resulted from a tip that Sinn Fein demonstrations were impending. It was learned today. The street about the jail is being heavily guarded.

Mrs. W. A. King, of Cleveland, Ohio, of the board of Catholic press, and Dr. J. H. Carter of Ironton, Ohio, a member of the Knights of Columbus, called at Brixton jail, but were not allowed to see MacSwiney because of his weakened condition.

LATE FLASHES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The senate slush fund investigating committee adjourned in its hearing late this afternoon. The committee will meet again at St. Louis October 18.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—Thirty-two thousand fans, the largest crowd in the history of League park, saw the White Sox defeat the Indians this afternoon.

DUBLIN, Sept. 25.—An attempt was made today to assassinate General Strickland of the British army at Cork, said a dispatch from Cork today. Shots were fired at General Strickland last night, but he escaped.

LONDON, Sept. 25, 4 p. m.—Physicians attached to the staff of the zone office and relatives of Terence MacSwiney, the hunger striking lord mayor of Cork have arrived at Brixton jail at 4 o'clock this afternoon in response of a hurried summons. The flurry at the jail led to reports that MacSwiney, who has been on a hunger strike for 44 days, had suffered a critical relapse.

Mrs. MacSwiney and two sisters of the stricken lord mayor arrived in taxicabs and quickly entered the jail infirmary.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Five persons were killed when a large passenger airplane crashed to earth near Hayes, Middlesex, today.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—Three arrests were made of ticket scalpers this afternoon in the police war on scalping and gambling. County officials have joined with police in the fight to stop all forms of gambling in the city.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—Profiteering landllords offer to cut rents of apartments if the fair price commission will agree not to prosecute.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—Over 20,000 members of the American Legion are in Cleveland ready for the opening of the second annual convention Monday.

GERMANY'S DEBT IS ESTIMATED AT $80,000,000,000

Tagblatt Argues Against Repudiation of War Debt to Subjects

MARK STILL DECLINING

Proposed Conference On Indemnity at Brussels is Abandoned

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Financial experts estimate Germany's national debt including indemnities at 416,000,000,000 marks instead of 235,000,000,000 marks as announced by Minister of the Treasury Wirth. The Tagblatt stated today. The par value of the mark is approximately a fifth of a dollar.

The Tagblatt declares that while Germany is bankrupt repudiation of war loans and other government debts would not only ruin millions of German people financially, but would fail to improve the economic situation of the government because the allies would seize the railroads and coal fields as pledges "to squeeze out Germany's last penny."

The Tagblatt demands that the allies give long term credits for raw materials and food. Germans are reported to be buying immense quantities of foreign currency, indicating that the belief prevails that the mark will shrink still further in value.

The Reichsbank is reported to be selling foreign paper in an attempt to stem the decline of the mark. A pessimistic feeling pervades the Bourse.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The proposed conference of the allies and Germany at Geneva on October 6 to discuss indemnity has been abandoned to all practical purposes, but the question may be reopened after the Brussels financial conference.

The British treasury will consider any reductions that are made at Brussels although definite action is not promised.

SCHOOL TRUANTS ARE TO BE TURNED OVER TO JUVENILE COURT

The superintendents and principals met early in August to discuss questions relating to school truancy in this county.

In order to secure better school spirit, greater enthusiasm, better results in attendance, punctuality, and work in general, it was decided to put on a campaign of literary contests consisting of debates, orations, essays and spelling.

The high schools are to be classified or grouped, each high school is to take part in at least four contests. In addition it has been decided to organize in each township one or more Community betterment clubs, and discuss questions like the following:

The greatest need of our schools. How we can secure 90 per cent attendance in our schools. The parents' responsibility to the schools. Thrift as it should be taught in our schools.

The benefits of a library suitable to each grade. The greater demands for an education in the future. Better equipment for the rural schools.

It has been arranged that each teacher is to report to the district superintendent all pupils in the elementary grade, not attending school; a vigorous effort is then to be made to get them in school. The prosecuting attorney is working out a plan to assist in better attendance.

All teachers are asked to make a careful inspection of stoves, furnaces and flues, and to clean up all rubbish and litter as well as ashes, and only paper that fires may be prevented as far as possible, and that conditions about the schoolroom and grounds may be made more attractive and inviting.

Parent-teacher meetings are to be continued this year, much good resulting from them last year.

The plan outlined in this county to take care of truant cases is for the district superintendent to report all cases of truancy in the schools to the prosecuting attorney, who will handle the matter thru the juvenile court, for the reason that if a pupil fails to comply with the school attendance laws, he thereby becomes a violator of the law and is a proper subject to be handled by the juvenile court.

The Goody Shop

Amusement And Contentment Cost $400,000,000 Month

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The tall of the national orgy of spending on the part of all classes of citizens that swept over the United States following the armistice still is pouring money into the pockets of purveyors of amusement and contentment at the rate of approximately $400,000,000 a month, according to an estimate made here today on the most recent war tax receipts of the treasury department.

Altho expenditures are being curtailed for automobiles, diamonds, imported cosmetics and the like, the public now is increasing its purchases of candy, soft drinks, and other non-alcoholic beverages, tobacco and theatre and movie tickets.

Seekers of recreation still are indulging in these things at the rate of nearly $5,000,000,000 a year, or enough to pay all expenses of the government for 12 months.

Taxes received by the government during May on the sale of candy, tobacco, soft drinks and admissions totaled $38,518,000. This is about 10 per cent of the things sold.

Tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and snuff seem to be the favorite indulgence of the American people, according to the tax returns.

Theatre admissions brot in the next biggest tax income to the government, total collections being $6,823,189. At this rate the annual expenditure for theatre seats would be approximately $794,712,000.

FARM BUYERS OF OTHER STATES ARE ATTRACTED HERE

The sale of six Coshocton-co farms during the past week by Blake E. Miser, district manager for the V. A. Strout farm agency. Four of the purchasers were outside the state and all from outside the county.

The G. S. Sicker farm located near Mt. Zion church was purchased by G. W. Green, of North Carolina, who will take possession soon. The farm has been in the possession of the Sicker family for a great many years.

Robert Harris sold his farm to William M. Adams, of Pennsylvania, and will give possession October 1.

Oliver Bloncoe has sold his farm to Clarence Pearl, of Cleveland, and will give possession October 1.

John Kobel has sold his farm, for March delivery, to Louis A. Reed and James Reed of West Virginia.

C. A. and Jeanie Kutchner, of Fresno have sold their farm to Louis W. Fortune and J. E. Fortune, of Kenton, O. Possession will be given December 1.

C. A. Aronhalt has sold his farm to B. A. Foster of North Carolina.

The Trouble Mender

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Look out!" shouted Vance Dubois in tones ringing with excitement, and experiencing a decided sense of dismay.

He stood at the open window of his room in the little family hotel, three stories up. It was an ideal bachelor suite and had become to him a veritable home. The occupants were select, the neighborhood a quiet one. He had nursed along a window flower box and one of the wires securing it had broken loose as he was working over it.

Hence the alarming cry. Now he leaned out and looked down. He had noticed below a few moments before a girl of about eighteen. She carried a large basket filled with eggs; he had observed, as she removed its cover. She had transferred several dozen of these to a smaller basket and now was not in sight. At once Dubois divined that the restaurant on the first floor was a regular customer of this industrious farm maid.

As he viewed the wreck and ruin caused by the window box, Dubois thanked his stars that the girl had not been beneath it when it fell.

A live, active, generous minded young man, Vance Dubois hurried to immediate action. He roused from his room down two flights of stairs, dashed through the dining room of the restaurant from its front and entered the cook's quarters. He was well known to every employee of the place, for he was a regular customer. The fat old cook regarded him with staring eyes, as this favorite customer, given to erratic actions as he knew from experience, demanded sharply:

"Girl delivering eggs—where is she?"

Rachel Morgan. Outside there," and he pointed to the area way where the flower box had fallen.

Thriller Dubois darted, but first snatching up the three-cornered white cap of the cook, donning also his expansive white apron and filling with wonder the chef, who marvelled at what this brisk young man might be up to now. Coming outside, Dubois halted before the shattered flower box and the wrecked basket from which trickled its broken contents, and almost floating in a sea of white and yellow color. Flounced to the pavement beside it, wringing her hands woefully, the girl, hysterical, tearful, was bemoaning her fate.

"Here, quick, you!" spoke Dubois. "We want more eggs."

"My eggs are all broken!" sobbed Rachel Morgan.

"So much the better—to use for cooking. How much the lot?"

"There were twenty dozen left."

"Call it fifteen dollars. How is that—basket and all? There's your money."

Rachel Morgan gave a great gasp as the money was extended. Her keen, clever eyes darted an absorbing glance at Dubois.

"You're a prince!" she proclaimed, and with sparkling eyes watched her liberal almoner as he re-entered the place.

"There's an olla podrida of shells, dirt and flowers outside there," he explained to the cook. "Clean it up when you have time," and extended a bank note while briefly explaining his part in the catastrophe.

The episode passed from his mind within the hour. He was given to such whimsical impulses, which were absorbing for the time being but soon forgotten. It was two days later that he noticed the subject of his latest generosity coming toward him. Hayden, flirt, mix, audacious Rachel Morgan was not bold enough to believe her coquetry would influence Vance Dubois, but she smiled her sweetest as she said blandly:

"Played the cook, didn't you? I've found out all about it, you dear, delightful trouble mender!"

"What of it?" calmly questioned Dubois, resenting her familiarity.

"I want to thank you for helping me out. It meant discharge for me if I hadn't got that money."

"As I broke the eggs you deserved pay for them, didn't you?"

"Yes," assented quick-witted Rachel, "but how many men would have done as you did? Mr. Dubois, I know some more trouble you can mend, and for a person you like immensely—Miss Ava Burton."

Dubois was mute. He was averse to careless lips naming the lady he worshipped, and who of late had been distant, mysteriously sad.

"You see," rattled on the irrepressible Rachel, "I have a fellow who knows another fellow who has been making Miss Burton all kinds of trouble about that scapegrace, Willard, her brother. He has made your dear lady love believe that he can get Willard into all kinds of a mixup if she don't give him a lot of money. Well, he hasn't the least hold on Willard, who is at present behaving himself in another part of the country, and these papers, which I made my bean steal from Miss Burton's persecutor, will show that my story is true. Now I've paid my debt of gratitude to you, haven't I?"

Dubois took the papers. He took the girl's hand. "Little one," he said with a rapt smile. "The day you marry this clever gentleman friend of yours, I shall not forget a handsome wedding present," and then on wings of feet, he sped toward the home of his lady love.

Ohio Farmers Target For Deceptive Claims Of Wets About Cider

Trying to Make Producers of Apples Believe They Must Have Permit Before They Can Make Cider.

In the orchard districts in some sections it is said apples are allowed to rot on the ground because the farmers have been deceived by the circular letters sent out by the liquor interests claiming in effect that to convert their apples into cider would be a violation of the law under the Volstead act and the Ohio liquor laws.

That these circular letters are entirely false is the statement of Dr. J. E. Foster, who, as a member of the Ohio General Assembly was secretary of the Liquor Traffic and Temperance Committee, the committee which drafted and secured the passage of the Ohio law. According to Representative Foster farmers can still make cider from their own apples and sell it, so long as it is sweet, without a permit. In proof of his assertion Dr. Foster submitted the following statement as embodying the facts in regard to the making and sale of cider by farmers:

Descriptive propaganda of the wets here in Ohio continues in evidence among the farmers. These farmers are being told that they cannot have their apples made into cider, the cider to be used even for family purposes. From some source, evidently wet, the farmers are receiving a circular to the effect that they will get in serious trouble with Uncle Sam if they have their own apples made into cider without a permit. Reports are to the effect that in some instances these circulars have caused farmers to stop picking apples intended for cider.

The wets are trying to make the farmers believe they are thus restricted because of the Volstead enforcement law and then they do not forget to add that House Bill 620 to be voted on at the coming Ohio election, is modeled after the Volstead act and that they should show their disapproval by voting "No."

This is all poppycock.

Under a ruling of the Internal Revenue Department, farmers can have their cider made from apples as always. They do not have to take out a permit. They can have cider and fruit juices manufactured as in other years. The man who operates a cider mill for custom work does not need a permit.

The farmer who has his apples made into cider can sell the cider if he desires as long as it is sweet. He can keep it for vinegar, or if it is hard cider, he can sell it, not for beverage purposes, but to a person who has a permit to make vinegar. Cider made for commercial purposes and intended to be sold as sweet cider must be preserved at the time of manufacture.

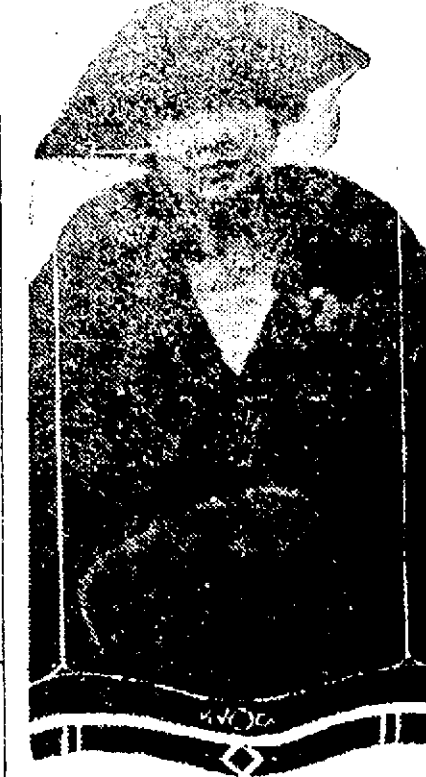

Wets hope to array the farmers against the enforcement act by trying to make them believe they cannot have cider made for their own use or for making apple butter without going to the trouble and expense of taking out a permit.

This is on a par with the wet claims of last year that if the Crabbe law was approved, the home could be invaded and searched at any time, and the inmates brutally treated.

Misrepresentation and plain lies had much to do with the defeat of the Crabbe law a year ago, and now the wets are resorting to the same tactics in an endeavor to defeat House Bill 620 and also to prejudice the voters against the national enforcement law in the hope that sufficient resentment may be aroused against this law to cause Congress to modify it to the extent that beer may be made and sold.

Ohio farmers who have any doubt about the cider question should write to J. A. Shearer, Prohibition Director.

DECIDING GAME OF BIG SERIES THIS AFTERNOON

The fifth and final game of the Coshocton-Newcomerstown series will be played at the Red Sea diamond this afternoon. Both teams are confident of victory.

The local management has secured a few new players to fill up the lineup for today, including a short stop, first baseman, second baseman and an outfielder.

Leo Unger and Sammy Payne the local favorites will be on the lineup today. Leo's great playing both at bat and in the field and Sammy's no-hit game last Sunday will prove that the locals will be on their feet in this afternoon's game.

Payne and "Mud" Elliott will be the local battery while Welch will be the big end for the visitors.

The Newcomerstown team will probably be "loaded" for this game. Welch has twice defeated the locals at Newcomerstown by the score of 5 to 3 and 1 to 0.

COLE'S PATENTED
HIGH OVEN RANGE

This range takes advantage of the natural law for heat to rise. The oven is placed above the fire so that the heat and flames reach it without being forced out of their natural path.

As a result the oven heats in half the time it takes to heat an ordinary range oven. It is quicker than a gas range.

Cole's Patented High Oven Range heats, cooks and bakes with one fire. It is equipped with the same Hot Blast Fuel Saving Draft that has made Cole's Hot Blast Heaters famous. This means a Saving of One-Third Your Fuel.

Cole's Patented High Oven Range will do everything that a high priced, six hole range will do, and more.

Chiropractic THE 25th ANNIVERSARY

—September 25th, 1895, D. D. Palmer discovered Chiropractic. On that day was revealed to him the fundamental principle upon which was to be developed into an art, a science and a philosophy.

—Atheologian, the Rev. Samuel A. Weed, who, with his wife and daughter received remarkable results from Chiropractic in 1896, observing that the only mode of procedure involved was the manual adjustment of the spinous process and by literally translating from the Greek bestowed the coined term "CHIROPRACTIC" upon the moving of the segments of the spinal column by the use of the bare hands alone.

"LAYING ON OF HANDS" BY BIG POLICEMAN WORKS "CURE"

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 25.—It was one of the most speedy and miraculous cures on record that was witnessed the other day by Detectives Cailahan and Maham, of the city plain clothes force.

A shapeless bundle of humanity, clothed in rags, crouched against a downtown building.

"I am paralyzed," he told passers-by, who, pitying his condition, were liberal in their contributions.

The officers decided to investigate, and one of them walked over and placed his hand on his shoulder.

The "paralytic" showed surprising signs of complete physical recovery.

The Lookout

By JESSIE ETHEL SHERWIN

(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"I've got the position! Oh! the rare, dear, good fortune of it all!" Alice Weston burst in upon her father afloat with excitement and delight. She had hurried all the way from the life saving station down at Cape Gray, two miles distant, and had run from the old lighthouse clear to the little cottage where John Weston sat reading a book.

"Good for you, Bright Eyes," he enthused, bestowing a glad glance upon her. "Let us hear all about it."

"You know, we heard how, during the summer season, the cape life-saving crew have planned to put a lookout signal station at the old lighthouse, so as to cover pleasure boats and bathers in this direction. The chief of the crew was awfully good to me. He inquired all about both of us, told me what I would have to do, and by Monday the telephone and the signals will be here for us, and I am to begin my duties. Oh, papa! think of it! Sixty dollars a month!"

Alice's eyes sparkled and those of her father filled with grateful tears. For over five years life had gone hard with those worthy and deserving souls, for Mr. Weston was too old to take parties out in his boat.

"We are to keep your boat ready for use," Alice went on, "and they will pay you ten dollars a month for what use it may have. They expect us to find some one to be within call of our station, ready to start out if any accident occurs on this side of the cape. You see, in most cases what comes under my notice I phone to the cape, but if there is a capsized boat or an accident to a swimmer near us, some one must be ready to start right out to the rescue."

The next morning a bronzed, hardy looking young man appeared at the cottage. He had heard of the position and had been directed to Mr. Weston by a neighbor. At a glance Alice discerned that the applicant was no ordinary workman. He simply stated that he had met with a serious reverse of fortune, had owned a yacht once, knew all about water craft and would be glad to secure the position offered. The life saving service chief appeared on the scene a little later, to look after some repairs in the tower that was to be the daily home of Alice, and she introduced North, whose services were at once arranged for.

Monday morning Alice reached the tower to find its top circular room newly whitewashed, the phone in and the place swept out and dusted. A pretty bouquet of wild flowers shored in a tin cup. North had arrived in advance of her.

"You worked all this magic!" said Alice, with grateful eyes.

"That ought to be part of my duty every morning," declared North. "See," and he pointed through the door of an alcove. "I've arranged for board. As to the lodging, could anything be better?" and he indicated a hammock swing across window openings where the sea breeze came in fresh and bracing.

Incidentally Alice learned that North had been left quite a fortune, but had been defrauded out of it by scoundrels. He had come down to the cape to sail a yacht for a very wealthy gentleman, but the latter had been taken ill.

"It left me stranded," he explained, "but I'll be able to get along here on what the position pays me for the rest of the season."

He was courteous, well read, refined in manner. During the first month of service he had saved a struggling and exhausted bather who had ventured too far out in the surf, and one stormy afternoon both he and Alice took the oars and reached a capsized boat just in time to rescue two young girls clinging to it. He had gone to take a report to headquarters one day when storm signals were up, and, returning, instead of coming up to the lookout, he hurried to the boat. Bending the oars vigorously, North drove forward diagonally in the direction of the cape. Soon, Alice, her eyes to the telescope, divined his purpose. He was cutting across the track of a light craft holding one man. As he reached it Alice uttered a sharp scream. A puff of smoke and then the faint echo of a pistol report told her of a desperate encounter. The boat was side by side. She saw North, who had fallen, arise, shift his oar, strike at the man who had fired at him and spring beside him. The shore boat floated away. The smaller one, both men apparently helpless, drifted unguided.

Alice sensed a tragedy. She acted like the true daughter of the sea that she was. In a few moments she was garbed in a light bathing suit. She was a superb swimmer, but fairly exhausted as she clambered into the drifting boat. Both of its occupants lay senseless. She got them ashore, called her father and within an hour North was able to tell his story.

"I heard in the town of a great jewel robbery at the hotel," he explained, "and noticed that suspicious boat. It contained the stolen plunder."

The thief was taken in charge by officers sent for. There came back a phone message. "There is one thousand dollars reward waiting here for somebody."

Of course the "somebody" was Gerard North, and his first investment, after a month's nursing by the solicitous Alice was an engagement ring.

Sweet Second "Victory"

THE second expulsion of the five Socialist members of the New York General Assembly gives rise to an issue so vital as to overshadow every pigmy contention which shifty campaign managers have tried to shove to the forefront this year.

Here is an issue of real Americanism which will not down and which evasive campaign managers cannot permanently dodge. These five men were expelled last winter on grounds so untenable as to call forth ringing rebukes from the best lawyers, not only in New York, but in every section of the country.

They went straightway to their constituents—the one supreme tribunal—and submitted their cases. In each instance these men were re-elected. To the credit of the New York press they were backed by every decent paper in the metropolis. The most eminent members of the New York bar defended them. They had the sympathy of thinking Americans in all parties.

That they were each returned by an increased majority has had no effect on a legislature to which future generations of New Yorkers will point with shame for a thousand years. The most fundamental rights of citizens guaranteed in clear and explicit terms both by the federal constitution and the constitution of New York State have twice been overthrown by the amazing action of a baker Sweet and his legislative henchmen.

Do men speak with bated breath of the soviet form of government? We have it here in its most undiluted form in the premier state of the American union. Do we denounce the methods of Lenin and Trotsky in Petrograd? What have they done there that Sweet and his crowd have not done at Albany? Charles E. Hughes, eminent lawyer and former member of the United States supreme court, says that this latest act of the legislature of his state "is of the essence of Sovietism."

The New York Assembly in short, has ruled that economic and social and political discontent has no right to appeal to the ballot box. To what then, we submit, shall the appeal be made? TO FORCE?

Have we become so forgetful in the short century and a quarter of our existence of the causes which led to our own Revolution and our ultimate rise as a nation that we now witness without protest the absolute denial of those very principles for which our fathers fought?

Has free America progressed so far on the road to autocracy that minorities peacefully appealing to the ballot box can be disfranchised?

We repeat the inevitable question, what appeal is left to these disfranchised peoples? The man who says that representative government can survive acts such as those twice perpetrated by the legislature of New York state is ignorant of all political history.

As one of the ousted Socialists declared on the floor to the Democratic boss: "This is no question of Americanism or patriotism. We have been thrown out because we dare to disagree with you and those interests who sent you here. I enlisted for the war while you remained behind to run your saloon. And when the Liberty Bond drives were on, I sold more bonds than you shoved schooners of beer over your bar."

On Friday The New York World said: "No other such open championship of anarchy and the methods of anarchy has ever been known in the United States as the New York Assembly has made under the hypocritical defense of 'defending patriotism.' As a result of it the Socialists party, with all that it represents, is thrust forward as the chief advocate of representative government in this state."

And while this act of sheer idiocy was being perpetrated by a supposedly intelligent body of men the columns of the press are filled with dire forebodings of labor uprisings and riots and bomb plots and the growth of Bolshevism and defiance of law and order. But our observation has been that if you wish a real exhibition of law defiance, let the voters at the ballot box pick Privilege in a tender place. If you would see a real manifestation of Bolshevism, let the electorate slap Monopoly in the face.

Peanut statesmen and a servile press profess to hear the growl of the "mob" growing ominously louder. But our experience has been that at no time in the last thirty years has the growl of the "mob" ever been able to make itself heard but momentarily over the louder and more foreboding growl of that other "beast" which sleeplessly stands guard with one paw over the money market of the nation and the other over the nation's legislative halls at Washington.

Bolshevism and Sovietism here in America are not mere theories for parlor Socialists to discuss. They are practical and exacting conditions imposed on us by forces of our own creation that are stronger than Lenin and Trotsky have ever been able to conjure up in Russia.

We agree with our reactionary publicists who warn us of dangers ahead, but we disagree with them as to the source. Our Fosters and Haywoods are not causes, BUT SYMPTOMS, of discontent in this country. The causes are deeper and our real danger lies in the third rate leadership which controls both major parties and which, in its attempt to "choke radicalism" with palliatives and time-serving devices, is of itself calculated to breed a quality of radicalism which is soon to test the capacity of our institutions to endure.

An Involuntary Crusoe

By ALVAH J. GARTH

(© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

A stumble across a stout vine, a headlong fall, then half a somersault and Ross Bradley, nearly stunned, felt a painful twinge in one limb and lay helpless.

"A change, some excitement, new visions and motives in life and you'll come back brisled up," was the prophecy of his physician at home, and this was the beginning of all that, as it turned out.

He had decided to put in a week at Brompton and had taken a boat, rowing through a chain of little lakes and finally seeking a shady spot upon an island in the center of the last one of these, had met with the mishap described.

Bradley started to get to his feet and then desisted, for one limb had sustained a severe sprain. The pain was so intense, the injured member so useless, that he dragged himself with difficulty to a fallen tree and calculated the chances of getting back to his boat. As he located the little skiff he uttered a sharp cry of dismay.

"Worse and worse," he uttered lugubriously. He had left the boat at frail moorings, a keen breeze had come up and it was about headed for a continuous run until halted by the mainland two miles away.

Twice Bradley rose up intent on reaching the beach of the island and sunk to the ground with a groan. He improvised a crutch from a tree branch, but found locomotion still ineffective. His face became serious.

Bradley realized that he could not count upon leaving the island except through outside help. Then a gleam of hope supervened. A little distance away there presented evidences of a picnic party having visited the spot.

Recently, too, for the papers scattered about were new and clean. Some wooden plates and empty bottles made a heap under a tree. Bradley crawled toward it, for he was hungry and realized the necessity of food should he be marooned for any length of time.

There were pie tins, tissue napkins, empty cans, and he laughed quite jubilantly as he drew from the mass a box marked "Crackers," and still sealed.

"Bless the kind soul that left this behind!" he soliloquized gratefully. "Marked two pounds. I won't starve for a day or two, anyway."

Bradley opened the end of the box. It contained plain sodas, crisp and clean. He sampled one and it tasted delicious. He paused with the fifth one-half demolished.

"It is probably as well to ration myself," reflected Bradley, and began a mental apportionment of his only possible food supply. A little distance away was a bubbling spring. Bradley resigned himself to patience and rest. It was getting towards dusk. He slumbered and did not awake until morning.

His limb was more useless than when first injured, for it had stiffened and grown sore to the touch. Bradley managed to reach the beach. He tied two handkerchiefs to a stick ready to signal any possible passing craft. He was an expert swimmer, but crippled to an extent that prohibited safe water locomotion.

It was the second morning that he made his breakfast on the last of the crackers. As he emptied out the final one, with it came a card. On one side was printed the chronicle "Packed by No. 171." On the other side was pasted a small medallion photograph. It was one of those twenty-five cent for a dozen pictures produced at picnics, water places and fairs by itinerant camera men, but the subject was very lovely of face and even quick work could not spoil the perfect control.

Bradley allowed his mind to drift into a pleasing day dream. He somewhat strained reality by declaring that No. 171 had saved him from starvation! He planned out whimsically how he would trace down the original of the photograph. Then he forgot all about it for over a week. For just then two fishermen passing in a boat discovered his signal, and until he was restored to normal Bradley recuperated in luxury at the hotel at Brompton.

Ross Bradley did not have to work for living. There was a profitable business which he had inherited, but he had entrusted its operation to a trustee.

With time hanging heavily on his hands, as the incident of the cracker box recalled to his mind he welcomed the excitement of the adventure of ferreting out "No. 171." He enjoyed fancying he was following out approved detective methods in locating the factory, in finally tracing down No. 171. But it was to find a horridlyish girl of eighteen, full of flirtatious nonsense, not in any manner resembling the little photograph. She had packed the fateful box, but out of mischief, had pasted on the picture of Miss Mabel Whiting, so Bradley finally unearthed the fact, who was the secretary of the president of the company employing both.

One sight of the original of the picture and Ross Bradley had, indeed, found a motive in life. Romance had led him on to follow out an idle whim. Now genuine love impelled him. It was not until they were on their honeymoon that Ross revealed the story of the treasured packing ticket. He replaced it reverently within his pocket and drew Mabel to a safe resting place, blessing the day when fate had sent him seeking for her.

BEGGARS PLY TRADE VERY SUCCESSFUL IN MEXICO

Hordes of Mendicants Infest Mexico City, But In Spite of Their Numbers Some Acquire Fortunes

MEXICO CITY, MEX., Sept. 25.—Beggary like all other professions, has a few who are brilliantly successful and a horde who merely exist, and this is particularly true in the land of beggars where competition is keen.

So many beggars make their appeal through Mexico that it seems impossible that any could grow rich, but some of them do, showing skill in handling money that would fit them for a more honorable calling.

A beggar was recently killed in the streets by an automobile. The police found that the ragged old man was worth $15,000 or $30,000 Mex.

Another beggar who was also killed in an accident was the owner of a large hacienda in Michoacan. His was a romantic story, it there is such a thing as romance in beggary. Early in life he adopted the career of beggar. He was an industrious, hard-working beggar and soon made money enough to buy a piece of land in Michoacan. This he farmed successfully, without letting his landed interests interfere with his begging operations. In course of time he married and reared a family in Michoacan. His wife and children having no idea that he was a beggar in the capital. He had been rich many years before his death, but love for his profession caused him to make regular visits to Mexico City for a begging campaign. It was on one of these visits that he was killed.

Not until then did his wife know that she had married a beggar; not until then did his neighbors know that the rich and successful farmer was a noted mendicant.

It is said that it is impossible to drive out the professional beggars from Mexico City because they are able to pay tribute to the police. A policeman here, it is said, gets $150 Mex., which is 75 cents in American money. Few of them are above temptation. It is said even of a petty kind. Efforts are being made to increase the pay of the policemen to $250 Mex. a day, or the equivalent of $2.50 in American money. This, it is believed, would check graft and cause greater efficiency.

ABE MARTIN

There's certainly some underproduction when you can't get a chorus girl for love or money. "I like roasting ears where the kernels run in a straight line. I just can't hold the road on a ear o' Country Gentleman," complained a drummer at the New Palace hotel today.

BIG INCREASE IN USE OF MARGARINE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—Americans are using well over 150 per cent more oleomargarine today than they were six years ago, according to the statement of E. P. Kelly, president of the Capital City Products Co., in an address before several hundred merchants in this city.

Mr. Kelly traced the rapid development made in the manufacture of margarine since the outbreak of the war and predicted a continued and even increased dependence by the public on reputable margarine products in the next year.

In 1914, official reports state that 144,021,276 pounds of margarine were produced in the United States. The total production for the year ending June 30, 1919, had grown to 359,216,571 pounds. Mr. Kelly said that it is safe to estimate the production for 1920 up to June 30, at around 380,000,000 pounds or more.

Four years ago there were from 35 to 40 factories making margarine. The latest report of the Institute of Independent Margarine Manufacturers places the present number of margarine producing concerns at 73. He explained that this increase in production does not indicate that many additional individual manufacturers as many established companies expanded their output by erecting additional factories in different districts where they put out the same brand as at the original plants.

A few years ago his own concern shipped from one factory in this city. Today it has additional locations at Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Syracuse.

Mr. Kelly displayed the following official figures in table form showing the growth in pounds in the production of oleomargarine since 1914:

Year ending June 30, 1914	144,021,276 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1915	144,021,276 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1916	145,810,048 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1917	152,509,913 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1918	233,170,111 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1919	359,216,571 lbs
Year ending June 30, 1920	380,000,000 lbs

CANTWELL'S

Approaching Marriage Of Miss Mary Agnew And James Beach October 21 Is Announced At Pretty Luncheon At Bride-Elect's Home

Thursday, October 21 is the date chosen by Miss Mary Agnew, 236 south Fourth-st., for her marriage to Miss Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Beach, 814 Cambridge-st. Announcement of the approaching event was made at an attractive luncheon given Saturday by Miss Agnew at her home. Green and yellow, the color scheme, furnished unusually pretty decorations for the announcement party. The announcement was made in an especially clever manner. Pretty silk vanity bags, in keeping with the color scheme, in which were placed black paper cuts bearing the message, "Agnew-Beach, October 21," revealed the secret.

Guests at the party were: Mrs. Lee Williams of Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. Frank Sawvel of Iola, Mrs. Russell Milligan, Mrs. Eugene Lynde and the Misses Marnie Hay, Della Hay, Ella Gosser, Marguerite Rudy of Millersburg and Gertrude Miller.

The bride elect, who is the daughter of Mrs. Theodore Agnew, is one of Coshocton's most popular and talented young women. She was graduated from Coshocton high school with the class of 1913. In 1917 she graduated from Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. After completing her college work Miss Agnew taught for one year in the Lafayette, Indiana, high school. For the past two years she has been instructor in science and vocational home economics in the local high school. She is a member of the Junior Woman's club and the Woman's Music club. On numerous occasions Miss Agnew has appeared in the leading role in performances given by local talent where she won much praise for herself.

Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn, who have been guests for the past few days of Mr. Glenn's parents, Judge and Mrs. James Glenn, 404 Sycamore-st., will return today to their home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Judd, of Akron, motored to Coshocton Saturday and will visit for a few days with relatives.

John A. Hogan, 437 Mulberry-st., left Saturday for Cincinnati where he will enter Queen City School of Pharmacy.

"Say it with Flowers." A. B. Williams, Florist, Cor. Vine & 10th-sts.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bomberger, of Dover, formerly of Coshocton, are visiting over the week end with Attorney and Mrs. Lloyd S. Leech, 621 Cambridge-st.

A cleverly arranged program entertained the members of the Busy Bee Missionary society of Grace M. E. church at the social meeting given Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Norris, 710 Cambridge-st. At the close of the program Mrs. Ira D. Weber (Helen Sibley) whose wedding was a recent event, was honored with a surprise miscellaneous shower by the members of the society.

Those present were Mrs. Weber, Mrs. E. A. Crawford, Mrs. Roy Biggs, Mrs. Sidney Broome, Mrs. William Hartley, Mrs. Steely Smith, Mrs. O.

over the week end with Mrs. R. A. Parrish, 358 Hamilton-av., and other relatives in Coshocton-co. Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Raven and family and Mrs. Raven's sister, Mrs. Francis Brown, of Yonkers, N. Y., who accompanied them to Coshocton Mrs. Parrish entertained with a dinner party Saturday. Covers were laid for the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finlay, Mrs. Mina Stewart and sons, Joseph and Robert, Mrs. Vinnie Logan of Cambridge, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Parrish and children, Miss Ruth Parrish, Miss Mabel Parrish and the hostess.

Mrs. David Rogers and son Harry of Elwood, Ind., who have been guests of Mrs. Rogers' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mike White, 612 Chestnut-st., left Saturday noon for Follansbee, W. Va., where they will join Mr. Rogers and make their home.

Mrs. L. E. Tyler entertained informally Friday evening at her home, 310 north Third-st. Guests at the affair were the girls who are employed at Minces Underselling store.

Mrs. George Sandel and daughter Catherine of Conesville are visiting over Sunday with Coshocton relatives.

Cut flowers in good supply. Andrew Kelter, Florist.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Corwin (Gretchen Dawson) will leave Sunday evening for New York city, where they will be the guests of Mr. Corwin's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Speck and daughter Virginia, 660 Poplar-st., will spend today with Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Speck of Newark.

Plain colors and two-tone shades in men's silk hose for ninety-eight cents One-fifty, grade—"The Buckeye."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cochran and daughters, Edith and Hazel, of Walhonding were guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Foy Cochran, 1221 East Main-st.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dawson, 637 Chestnut-st., have as their guests for a few days, Mrs. J. F. Sprague and children, Elizabeth and Frederick, of Springfield, who are enroute to California where they will make their home.

After visiting for the past two weeks with relatives in Jefferson-co Miss Ella Henderson has returned to her home, 839 Walnut-st.

Mrs. Belle Wagner of Los Angeles, Cal., is here for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner, 358 McClain-av.

Miss Edith Smith, south Sixteenth-st., was given a surprise party Friday evening. The occasion was honoring her birthday anniversary. Games and music were enjoyed and refreshments were served to the following: the guest of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, Misses Thurza Perkins, Stella Campbell, Trevenna Stuart, Edna Askerns, Lucy Smith, Hazel Smith and the Messrs. Wilson Perkins, Russell Darr, Fred Hall, Otis Fleming, James Stuart, Paul Henderson and Joseph Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hall and family, 1338 east Chestnut-st., will leave Monday by motor for Long Beach, Cal.

Robert Wallace, a student at Ohio State university, Columbus, is visiting over the week end at his home, 713 Main-st.

The wedding of Miss Blanche Reddick, daughter of Jesse Reddick of West Lafayette, and Adolph Varnes of New Bedford was solemnized Saturday morning at 12 o'clock at the West Lafayette M. E. church parsonage by the pastor, Rev. T. I. McLean. The bridegroom's brother, John Varnes, witnessed the ceremony.

The bride, who was graduated from West Lafayette high school with the class of 1918, enjoys a wide circle of friends who will be interested in learning of her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Varnes left Saturday afternoon for a wedding trip to Cleveland, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will make their home in West Lafayette.

Mrs. E. A. Hoyt and Mrs. C. H. Hoyt entertained Friday evening at the home of the latter, 1502 east Chestnut-st., with a surprise party honoring the birthday anniversaries of Misses Thelma and Ethel Hoyt. Dancing and music were enjoyed after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses.

The guest list included: Misses Thelma and Ethel Hoyt, Pauline Bassett, Bernice Hoyt, Bessie Shaw, Minnie Bible, Meriam Nelson, Marjorie Stockum, Ruth Newton and the Messrs. George Webb, Parker Imhoff, Edward Weaver, Thomas Eelen, Harry Ashman, Harold Harden, Harold Hoyt and Charles Newton.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of her granddaughter, Miss Lois Osler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osler of Columbus, Mrs. George Slegriat was hostess at a party given Saturday afternoon at her home, 225 north Third-st. Guests at the affair were: Lois Osler, Betty and Barbara Dennis, Nancy Lybarger, Betty Judd of Dover, Frank Funk of Tunnel Hill, Edward Lybarger, William Tumbler, Jr., and William Baker.

Mrs. Frank Osler, Mrs. W. H. Ringer and Mrs. Earl Funk assisted the hostess.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

By E. E. FARQUHAR

The big event of the year is scheduled for Friday evening, October 1. Our first annual fall rally is to take place at that time. Every girl in the association will be interested in the program for the evening, for the committee in charge promises us that there will be nothing dry about the entertainment. If you think the evening isn't going to be full of pep read the things that are in store for us.

First of all we're going to start things right by having a good supper, which will be served at 6 o'clock.

And the next part of it is we don't even have to bring our own sandwiches. The health and recreation committee is going to prepare the supper.

Tickets (costing 25 cents) will be placed on sale early in the week, and it is quite necessary that you purchase your ticket before Thursday evening for the committee must know how much to cook.

A program check full of surprises is to follow supper. We're going to have a real singing bee. By the way, please do not forget to bring your Y. W. C. A. song books, because we're going to sing a lot of those songs.

In case you do not own a song book drop in at headquarters and buy one before Friday night. They cost only 15 cents and you should have one.

"Echoes from the summer conference" will be given. The girls who went to Oxford, Granville and Lake Geneva will have some interesting things to tell you.

Another feature of the evening will be the stunts which are to be given by each industrial club in the association. Since each club is determined to carry away the honors it's evident that this part of the program will be lively.

Then the committees are going to tell us just a few of the things they have accomplished since we became Y. W. C. A. members. Instead of long, tiresome reports (for reports often strike us as being that way) our committees are going to present their work by unusually clever stunts. In addition to what has been done during the year the coming year's work will be presented in a most unique way.

Since so many, many things pertaining to the evening's program are to be surprises about all we can do is to urge you to be present, then you can see for yourself what a big event this fall rally really is.

It will be held on the Presbyterian church lawn and should the weather decide to be unkind to us we will have the supper and rally in the church basement. Please do all within your power to make our first fall rally a great big success.

The girls of the LaF-O-Lot club will meet at headquarters Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Plans for the fall rally are to be discussed and every member of the club is expected to be present.

The recreation and health committee will meet Monday afternoon at 3:45. It's to be an unusually important meeting. Every member is urged to be present.

The association is particularly anxious to secure a list of furnished rooms within the next few days. If you have a vacant room want you please call headquarters? Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

The citizenship class continues to increase in interest and flourish in members. The third meeting is to be held at headquarters Tuesday evening at 7:30 sharp. The instructor, Mr. Lybarger, has asked all members of the class to read the United States constitution before coming to class Tuesday evening.

Girls, please remember that our publicity campaign is now on. You owe it to the association to tell everybody you meet a few of the things the Coshocton Y. W. C. A. means to you.

Do not our association wherever you happen to be. If all your friends have not signed the purpose cards take them to Headquarters with you and try to interest them in Y. W. C. A. work. The association has a place for every girl in Coshocton, but it's up to us to find the girls.

The work of the association is to be presented in the local churches today sometime during the morning hour. Y. W. C. A. members will make five minute talks. Your presence at church will inspire the speaker.

Boost the FALL RALLY.

G. W. Kanavel, a former Coshocton resident, now state senator in Kansas, spent Saturday here with his niece, Miss Dora F. Kanavel, north fourth-st. Mr. Kanavel moved to Kansas about 50 years ago.

Miss Margaret Johnson of Pittsburgh, Pa., is visiting over Sunday with Coshocton friends.

A Successful Definition

—An enterprising firm offered a prize of $250.00 for the best definition of the word "success." The winner was a Western woman who submitted the following:

—"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction."

—We are inclined to approve of the committee's judgment that awarded this Western woman the prize. She might have added appropriately, however, if you want the best Phonograph, buy the STRADIVARA and see the large stock of Pianos and Player Pianos at Compton's before you make your fall selection.

Eats Candy but Loses Her Fat

Here's joyful news for every fleshy person who loves good things to eat, especially those who are denying themselves the things they like most because of their desire to keep down their weight or to reduce the fat with which they are already burdened.

There is no further necessity to diet in order to keep your weight down or reduce the fat you have already acquired. The famous Marmola Prescription has been put up in tablet form and is now sold by all druggists at one dollar for a small size box. To get rid of fat the rate of two, three or four pounds a week, just take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or looseness will remain. Use Marmola Prescription Tablets according to directions a few weeks and get results without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Get them at any drug store or send the price to the Marmola Co., 63 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich., and receive them by mail, prepaid, in plain, sealed cover.

We lend money on anything of value; don't worry about your obligations; borrow from us and meet them promptly. It's easy. Try it. Coshocton County Finance Co., 109 south Sixth-st.

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD THAT WEARS THE CROWN

PURCHASE OF MARSHES ON LAKE ERIE IS DELAYED

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—According to information from A. C. Baxter, chief of the Ohio fish and game department, the contemplated purchase of marsh lands along Lake Erie could not be made by September 16, the opening day of the duck hunting season, as planned, for the reason that exports employed for that purpose were unable to determine title to large sections of marsh, and purchase will not be authorized by the attorney general until a clear title and proper notes and bounds can be shown.

Swamp Land Surveyor Harry Heinrich, employed by the fish and game department, has advised that the G. A. Boeckling Co. at Cedar Point, who owns a large portion of the Huron marsh, is on the Grand List in Erie for 706.46 acres, in Huron-tp, while, according to fudgums in a case of the West Huron Sporting club vs. Andrew Teasal, et al., the Huron marsh lands in dispute contain about 1000 acres. Maps inspected indicate a larger acreage, and in some cases farmers claim large portions of the territory. Heinrich is of the opinion that survey cannot be made until the marsh freezes over. He asserts that the marsh titles are a complicated maze that will take months to unravel. The fish and game department will hurry the survey as far as possible at all points, and no time will be lost in an effort to obtain control of the Lake Erie marsh land, Baxter said today. It may be necessary to have legislation passed to take over some of these marshes, or if necessary to condemn for the general public benefit, territories held in dispute. "We are determined to open as much marsh territory as possible to all the hunters of Ohio, but to do this legally may take some time," Baxter advises. "However, it is going to be done as soon as possible."

GIANTS HAVE A FAINT HOPE OF LANDING PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Giants start their last efforts to get into the 1920 World series when they play the first of two games at Ebbetts Field with Brooklyn this afternoon. Another contest will be run off tomorrow and then a few days will intervene before the two teams come together for the last time this season at the Polo Grounds.

Pivo games in all are scheduled and the Giants must win every one of them as well as a pair of contests scheduled with the Braves if they win the pennant. Brooklyn needs two victories to make certain that half of the World's series will be played at Ebbetts Field.

If they win the contest and the Giants then clean up the rest of their games, the two teams will be tied, provided Brooklyn does not lose a contest, it still has on the books with Boston.

Fred Toney, ace of the Giants right handers, are booked to work the two games against Brooklyn. Douglas and Barnes will be shot against the Braves and Neft and Toney will face the Dodgers in the final of the three games.

The American league thrill tapered off some today with the news that Cleveland had handed Chicago a set back. It now is impossible for the Sox to go into the lead in the present series, and Cleveland's chances

TOY BALLOON INDUSTRY HAS BIG GROWTH IN OHIO CITY

ASHLAND, O., Sept. 25.—It used to be that all toy balloons were made in Europe, largely in Germany. Today Ohio produces between 50 and 75 per cent of this nation's entire output of this toy, or about 1,500,000 daily.

About 2500 gross, or nearly one-fourth of Ohio's daily output, are made here. Other Ohio toy balloon factories are located at Barborton, near Akron; Cleveland, Kenmore, Lorain, Mansfield, Orrville, Ravenna, Wellington, Willard and Wooster.

Ashland leads the entire world in the manufacture of these balloons. Toy balloons and squawblers made here are sold in Europe and in the Far East.

Besides being a plaything for the children, they are used for testing air currents in aviation fields, for decorations at banquets, as an advertising medium and for other purposes.

No Large Caves in Britain. England and Scotland have many caves, though most of them are small. Along the rocky coast of Scotland can be found caverns formed by the waves, but in the Peak cave, Derbyshire, England, there is much of interest. One peculiar thing about the English caves is the marvelous relics found there.

Peak cave having furnished the greater number. When first explored it contained fossil remains of rhinoceroses, lions, hyenas and other wild beasts now found only in parts of Asia and Africa. This seems to indicate that England was once a tropical country. Stone axes, hammers and other implements also were found, showing that the people of that day lived in caves. Peak cave is not a very large one, as it is only about a mile in length and 600 feet below the surface.

White House Orchids. It was during Gen. Grant's tenure of office that the collection of orchids in the White House grounds was begun, and from that time on, at Mrs. Grant's suggestion, the department of state always has requested American consuls at tropical seaports all around the world to send to Washington any desirable varieties procurable. When Mrs. Grant was presented with some blooms by a South American minister, the orchid, then practically unknown, was destined to become the aristocrat of all flowers. Not since the days of the Dutch tulip craze has any flower occupied the place in public favor as that now held by the orchid.

of watching a World's series appear brighter than they ever did. The Yankees are out of it. If they get anything better than third place now they should be pretty well satisfied. Radical chances are on the books for this club. Derrill Pratt probably will leave baseball this year which is the most brilliant he ever enjoyed. Duffy Lewis may decide to quit also. A new set of pitchers is badly needed by the Yankees and there are rumors that Miller Huggins is to get the axe.

Middle Age at 35 or 60?

Physician Explains Why Lack Of Iron In the Blood Saps the Strength and Vitality and Often Makes Men and Women Look and Feel Old Before Their Time.

By Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author

Signs of old age are plainly to be seen in many a man and woman who ought still to be enjoying the rugged health and activity of the early prime of life. Yet often the real cause of their decline is nothing more than lack of iron in the blood and it is surprising how quickly these conditions are frequently corrected once the right kind of iron is supplied. I am constantly coming across cases in my practice where people not yet 40 show much of the nervousness, lack of energy and general run-down condition which might possibly be expected to come twenty years later in life while others at 60 may still be young in feeling, mentally alert with steady nerves and strong bodies. Whether we have health and long life is often a question which each one must determine for himself. Signs of old age are largely due to a deposit of waste matter in the blood vessels and cells of the body. Without plenty of strengthening from the blood is utterly lacking in the power to overcome this slow poisoning process and keep the body strong and healthy. To make up for this deficiency I usually prescribe organic iron like Nuxated Iron which by enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells helps renew the wasted tissue and build strength and energy, to withstand the ravages of time. I know of no more simple means by which a person can find out if his blood needs iron than by making the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained. Nuxated Iron will increase the strength, power and endurance of delicate, nervous run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances. You can procure Nuxated Iron from your druggist on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or your money will be refunded.

The Traffic Truck

The Lowest Priced 4,000-lb. Capacity Truck In The World—$1495, f. o. b. St. Louis

—When you buy a Traffic Truck you have purchased something more than simply a motor truck — you have brought cheaper transportation—cheaper in dollars and cents than the cost of hauling with any other known carrier, regardless of its type or character.

—It costs twice as much to haul with teams as it does with a Traffic. It saves you hundreds of dollars in first cost and hundreds of dollars in maintenance cost.

There was something about the young man who approached her in the suit and cloak department of the store where she had just been employed, that won the attention of Irene Dawson at once. This was her second week at earning a living, and not yet had interest in nothing and studying the various types of people who came along abated. Home and school had confined her girlhood to a narrow scope, and bustling business life fascinated her with a presentation like to a constantly changing diorama.

"I am to see the manager, if you please," spoke the young man, and his tones corresponded with his delicate, refined face. "It is about a coat," and he set down a suitcase he had carried.

"Miss Lowe has gone to the stock-room and will be here in a few minutes," Irene apprised him, and just then the lady in question appearing, Irene busied herself folding and sorting some silk sweaters, and as was her wont, mentally analyzing the caller, picturing him as an artist, or poet, or a professional man of some sort, judging him by his intellectual features and trying to surmise the cause of a somewhat sad expression in his eyes. He and the lady manager were engrossed for some time in discussing a lady's street coat which the suitcase contained. She wrote him out a cashier's check, placed the returned garment aside, and was busy making a notation on a tag, when Irene passed to her side. "Walter Morse," said
Irene, and an address.

"Poor man. Rather a peculiar case," said Miss Lowe. "His mother purchased the coat here a week ago and died three days later. From what he tells me she had taken charge of two children of a dead daughter, and now these are left to his care. Nothing is at hand to provide for the little brood, and I fancy he is not himself possessed of any material surplus of income. Oh, my dear," she called after Irene, as the latter moved away, "you told me you were thinking of a new winter coat."

"Yes, when winter comes and I have saved up enough to buy it," laughed Irene.

"Well, here is your chance," announced Miss Lowe, and she held up the article just returned.

Irene inspected the garment eagerly.
The low price was irresistible. "I will take it," she said, and that evening carried it home fully satisfied with a purchase that provided her with a cold-weather wrap at one-half its real value.

Irene's mother approved the bargain and was interested in Irene's story of the incident that had led to its acquisition. The Dawsons had known comfort and plenty until the head of the family died, and Irene was now the sole support of her aged mother.

"I will get at the coat tomorrow, dear," said the latter. "It is quite long, and I think the best way to do would be to turn in the deferred edge."

So for the time being, the garment was forgotten, but not so the interesting young man who had brought it to the store. Irene consulted the telephone book. Yes, there it was: "Walter

A Sandy Inheritance

By RALPH HAMILTON

(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

The young man looked fagged out as he came down the road and turned into Farmer Worth's yard to get a drink of water at the pump.

"You think you won't stop!" a voice startled him, and he arose to his feet, neither wishing to play intruder nor eavesdropper.

"Not I," came the prompt response. "I won't say that your offer isn't liberal, for a farmer, but they're paying a dollar an hour for carpenters and I've quite a knack that way."

Wayne Delmore had moved on and started for the road. A young man carrying a worn satchel came down the porch steps and swung through the gate. Their paths crossed, Delmore halted.

"I wasn't trying to listen," he said, "but it sounded as if you were turning down a job."

"Yes," acceded the other promptly, "looking for one?"

"I've got to, I guess," answered Delmore in a dull, weary tone. "Any use of a man who never handled a plow applying?"

"Abel Worth don't want a plow hand," came the reply. "It's a sort of superintendent or overseer he's after. Cripple, you know, and can't get around any too good. Are you quick at figures, and can you boss a gang of six?"

"I did some work of that kind over the state line," said Delmore.

"Well, it won't hurt to try your luck. I want a man who can watch the odd ends and keep the hands straight," advised Abel Worth. "Since my daughter went to work in the town I haven't anybody to keep track of things as she used to. You'll have to be manager, timekeeper and cashier. References? Security? You see, I must know that I am trusting an honest man, although you look that on sight."

"I am too honest and trustful, I've begun to think," replied Delmore, with a wan smile. "I have a letter from my last employer. Security, yes. If you'll consider sixty-eight acres just over the ridge, as that."

"Oh, you own some land hereabouts, then?" inquired Worth in manifest surprise.

"Yes, about a half quarter section. That's my trouble. I wanted to get a little farm and I traded a house and lot for the sixty-eight acres. The seller was a land shark. I've just looked it over. It's all sand and even a weed won't grow on it."

"Ah, I understand now. Yours are the third hands through which that triangular piece has passed in the last five years. So they hounded you? Too bad! Well, I'll be glad to give you a show. Got any traps with you?"

"At the depot—my trunk."

"We'll get that later. I will pay you $550," and Worth went into detail, then called his wife, explained matters, and Delmore found himself apportioned a neat bedroom, and was made aware of the nature of the work expected of him.

"You can hitch up the sorrel about four o'clock, if you will, and go and get your trunk," instructed Mr. Worth. At just six stop at Front street block in the town—anybody can direct you there—and call for my daughter in the office of Bird & Black, lawyers. She works there. Bring her home."

Six o'clock began a new and delightful chapter in the life of Wayne Delmore. A bright, pleasant, intelligent girl of eighteen, Ruth Worth was beautiful as well. She chatted with Delmore all the way to the farm. At the supper table she, as well as her father and mother, seemed glad to make the stranger feel at home.

Within a few weeks Delmore was domesticated and a new man in feelings and character. He had thrown the sand and lot to the discard.

"I'm sick of it," he told Ruth one evening, "that I never want to think about it again. A man was around yesterday asking its price. I wouldn't talk to him. Because some one cheated me, I'm not going to play the swindler in turn."

Delmore at the end of the season was an expert in his new position. He was only too willing to continue in the same. Ruth had become the light of his life and he had won the sincere liking of every one about the farm. He was sent for in the field one day by Mr. Worth, who somewhat astonished him with the information that Ruth had telephoned from the law office to have him call her up. Delmore was equally amazed when the words came over the wire:

"If anybody comes to buy your sand property refuse to deal until I see you."

It was in a great transport of excitement that Ruth joined him in the farm buggy at six o'clock. She had quite a story to tell. A client of the firm had been having the sand of the 60 acres analyzed, as had several other concerns. It seemed that the substance was known as crystallized sand, found, after experiments, to be especially adaptable for the making of fine porcelain.

"You will receive all kinds of offers," explained Ruth, "but you will do best to deal with our client."

When Wayne Delmore had received a goodly sum for his property, he wondered if an offer of love would meet the approval of Ruth. He tried the experiment with hope, and greeted its acceptance with the joy of a true and loyal heart.

GLASS HOUSE TEAM

TAKES SECOND PLACE

The Glass house team slipped into second place in the Industrial league standing by defeating the Tyndal nine at the Red Sea diamond Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 4.

Tyndal out-hit the Glass factory, securing 12 bingles off Lew Payne, the opposing pitcher.

Quay Norman was unlucky. In the ninth inning when a runner on third base started for home plate and badly wrenched the catcher's left wrist in the play.

Sammy Payne was again the star when he clouted one for a three-bagger. Sammy was right there with his batting eye. He played shortstop for the Glass factory.

The score and battery:
Tyndal 4 12 8
Glass House 8 8 2
Batteries: Tyndal, Gillen and Patton, Glass, L. Payne and Norman.
